

Third Sector Company offers distinct programs to help board members to excel in their governance responsibilities. Board Chairs Academy presents six critical areas of board leadership responsibility using online Zoom technology. Each topic is presented first in a 90-minute session with a set of assignments for completion over a two-week period. A second session on the same topic then uses small and large group discussion for participants to share their learning.

The Academy also offers the following additional support to registrants and alumni:

- Board Chairs Roundtable. A monthly 90-minute online discussion among board leaders from throughout North America offering a deeper dive into key elements of Academy curricula. Complimentary registration is offered to current Academy participants. Alumni of the Academy may participate for a nominal fee to remain connected with their peers and topics of interest.
- Board Chairs Academy LinkedIn Group. An invitation-only social media forum for Academy registrants and alumni to post questions, participate in discussions and access Academy materials.
- Board Chairs Academy To Go. Offers a menu of online, on-demand, and in-person services to further support nonprofit boards. Each participating organization receives two complimentary hours of consultation to augment the classroom program plus access to facilitation, training, and consultation services at reduced rates.

Board Chairs Academy - Six Program Topics in Twelve Sessions

BOARD GOVERNANCE: Advancing the Art of Governing a Community Cause

The first two sessions explore the attributes of governance in relation to the nonprofit business model. Participants are challenged to recognize the leadership needs of cause-related organizations and the responsibilities of board members to advance effective decision-making on behalf of mission-driven enterprises. Discussions include the role of values in leadership, the unique elements of nonprofit boards, nonprofit management versus nonprofit leadership, and the nonprofit life cycle.

BOARD DEVELOPMENT: Evolving a Board to Its Potential

Governing an evolving organization requires an evolving board of directors. These two sessions provide an overview of how to develop a dynamic board of directors with an evolving focus on diversity, inclusion, equity, and access. Discussions include the evolution of board development as an element of governance responsibilities, board assessments against an organizational picture of success, board recruitment strategies, board orientation, and effective board meetings.

RESOURCE DEVELOPMENT: Building Community Equity for Sustainable Community Impact

Sustainable resource development is the product of a fundraising culture. This pair of sessions challenges participants to analyze their current fundraising cultures and discuss a board's responsibilities for creating and edifying a successful resource development environment. The program includes a fundraising assessment, fundraising myths and laws, a marketing-based approach to resource development, and creation of action plans.

LEADERSHIP SUCCESSION PLANNING: Assuring a Continuity of Leadership to Advance the Cause

Assuring a continuity of leadership is one of the most important forms of resource development for a nonprofit organization's sustainable future. These two sessions offer a hallmark presentation of the mission statement of Third Sector Company. Board members and executive staff are provided tools for cultivating a culture of leadership continuity and succession planning with a focus on evolving diversity, inclusion, equity, and access.

BOARD & EXECUTIVE RELATIONS: Leveraging a Partnership for Community Results

The relationship that a board has with its chief executive officer sets the tone for understanding the dynamic that exists between governance and management in a nonprofit organization. These two sessions present recommendations for performance planning and accountability throughout the organization, evaluating the chief executive, executive compensation, and succession planning practices and policies.

THE GENERATIVE BOARD: Fostering Innovation to Advance the Cause

Board Chairs Academy culminates with a discussion about the attributes of a strategic organization, which is the result of strategic governance in action. These two sessions advocate for the development of a nonprofit dashboard, analysis of organizational effectiveness against mission and stated benchmarks of success, board member roles in assuring a strategic organizational culture, and steps to avoid backsliding into managing operations and minutia.
